Energy Savings and Window Film Online Training*

DALLAS November 30, 2010 – HanitaTEK is an Education Provider to the USGBC and is building a system of fenestration-related courses to teach the benefits of window film to the LEED community. “Because the USGBC is a source for LEED and green building knowledge, HanitaTEK is enthusiastic about promoting the benefits of window film in partnership with the USGBC” said Mark A. Carlson, Business Development Manager of HanitaTEK.

James K. Black, President and General Manager of HanitaTEK said “We are confident that as we provide more learning opportunities to the green building community, HanitaTEK will be recognized as the specialized supplier in our industry.”

Located in Dallas, Texas, HanitaTek is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hanita Coatings and works with ESCOs to provide turn-key installed kW and kWh solutions utilizing HanitaTEK window films – a business strategy that has made Hanita Coatings a global leader in energy and environmental solutions. Of course, as an ISO 14001-Certified company, Hanita Coatings is committed to producing our energy-saving products within a context of environmental impact.
